

Patient Bill of Rights

Information

You have the right to receive accurate and easily understood information about your health plan, health care professionals, and health care facilities. If you speak another language, have a physical or mental disability, or just don't understand something, assistance will be provided so you can make informed health care decisions.

Confidentiality

You have the right to talk in confidence with health care providers and to have your health care information protected. You also have the right to review and copy your own medical record and request that your therapist amend your record if it is not accurate, relevant, or complete. You have the right to expect that all communication and records pertaining to your medical care is treated as confidential.

Complaints and Appeals

You have the right to a fair, fast, and objective review of any complaint you have against your health plan, therapists, treatment or other health care personnel. This includes complaints about waiting times, operating hours, the conduct of health care personnel, discrimination, and the adequacy of health care facilities. Information regarding the practice's initiation, review, and resolution of patient/client complaints can be obtained from Linda Schnare via email at admin@orthopaedicsplus.com.

Consumer Responsibilities

- The responsibilities outlined are ways that the consumer can work together with the health care provider to achieve the best quality health outcome.
  - Become involved in specific health care decisions.
  - Work collaboratively with your therapist in developing and carrying out agreed-upon treatment plans.
  - Disclose relevant information and clearly communicate wants and needs.
  - Use the health plan's internal complaint and appeal process to address concerns that may arise.
  - Avoid knowingly spreading disease.
  - Recognize the reality of risks and limits of the science of medical care and the human fallibility of the health care professional.
  - Be aware of a health care provider's obligation to be reasonably efficient and equitable in providing care to other patients and the community.
  - Become knowledgeable about your health plan coverage and health plan options (when available) including all covered benefits, limitations and exclusions, rules regarding use of information, and the process to appeal coverage decisions.
  - Show respect for other patients and health workers.
  - Abide by administrative and operational procedures of the health plans and health care providers.
  - Report wrongdoing and fraud to appropriate resources or legal authorities.

Choice

You have the right to a choice of therapist that is sufficient to provide you with access to appropriate high-quality health care. You have the right to refuse any recommended services.

Participation

You have the right to know all your treatment options and to participate in decisions about your care. Parents, guardians, family members, or other individuals that you designate can represent you if you cannot make your own decisions.

Respect

You have the right to considerate and respectful care given by competent personnel. You have the right to physical therapy services without discrimination based upon race, color, religion, sex, sexual preference, or national origin.

Access

If you have severe pain, an injury, or sudden illness that convinces you that your health is in serious jeopardy, you have the right to receive screening and stabilization emergency services whenever and wherever needed, without prior authorization or financial penalty.
